Indigeneity, Development, and the State in 20th-Century Mexico and Peru

This event will explore changing conceptions of indigeneity and development in mid-20th-century Mexico and Peru. How did divergent framings of the “indigenous question” shape government policies and the production of knowledge? What relation did state developmental agendas bear to processes unfolding within indigenous communities themselves?

PRESENTERS
Paula López Caballero
UNAM, Mexico
Cayetana Adrianzén Ponce
New York University

DISCUSSANTS
Karin Rosemblatt, University of Maryland
Vera Candiani, Princeton University

MODERATOR
Tony Wood, Princeton University

Tuesday, March 9
5:00-6:30pm
Register HERE

Visit plas.princeton.edu/events for full details.