Ethnographers Carolina Alonso Bejarano, Lucia López Juárez, and Mirian A. Mijangos García discuss their recent book, Decolonizing Ethnography: Undocumented Immigrants and New Directions in Social Science (Duke University Press, 2019). The book describes how the research partnership between collaborators—including Bejarano, then a graduate student at Rutgers, and López and Mijangos, immigrant workers and activists with a local organization for migrant workers—led to insights about ethnographic research as a tool for activism. The authors will describe their collaborative research methods (including an original bilingual workers’ rights play), how they navigated the power dynamics of academic research, and how their individual and combined research experiences transformed their understandings of anthropology, activism, and immigrant rights.

TUE., APR. 5, 4:30pm | 219 BURR HALL

Reception to immediately follow. Open to PU ID holders only.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Carolina Alonso Bejarano
Law, University of Warwick

Lucia López Juárez, Activist

Mirian A. Mijangos García, Activist

MODERATOR

Marian Thorpe
PLAS Postdoctoral Research Associate, Princeton University

Ethnographers Carolina Alonso Bejarano, Lucia López Juárez, and Mirian A. Mijangos García discuss their recent book, Decolonizing Ethnography: Undocumented Immigrants and New Directions in Social Science (Duke University Press, 2019). The book describes how the research partnership between collaborators—including Bejarano, then a graduate student at Rutgers, and López and Mijangos, immigrant workers and activists with a local organization for migrant workers—led to insights about ethnographic research as a tool for activism. The authors will describe their collaborative research methods (including an original bilingual workers’ rights play), how they navigated the power dynamics of academic research, and how their individual and combined research experiences transformed their understandings of anthropology, activism, and immigrant rights.

TUE., APR. 5, 4:30pm | 219 BURR HALL

REGISTER HERE

Visit plas.princeton.edu/events for full details.